HIGHLIGHTED FEATURED WORKSHOPS:
Becoming a Tread Lightly! Tread Trainer & Master Tread Trainer

BECOME A TREAD LIGHTLY! TREAD TRAINER
Coordinated by Tread Lightly!, a proud member of the National Trails Training Partnership

- Date: Sunday, April 14
- Time: 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
- Cost: $102 (includes breakfast and lunch)

This program is designed to train participants in innovative, practical methods of spreading outdoor ethics to the public with a curriculum specifically focused on motorized and mechanized recreation. Completing the one-day Tread Trainer course will qualify the participant to become a Tread Lightly! representative - a "Tread Trainer." Once a participant becomes a Tread Trainer, he or she is equipped to present the Tread Lightly! message to educators, clubs, employees, visitors, enthusiasts, or community members. The program was created as a mechanism to disseminate the Tread Lightly! message of responsible recreation through volunteerism.
BECOME A TREAD LIGHTLY! MASTER TREAD TRAINER ~ 2 DAYS
Coordinated by Tread Lightly!, a proud member of the National Trails Training Partnership

- Date: Thursday, April 18 & Friday, April 19
- Time: 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. (both days)
- Cost: $174 (includes breakfast and lunch both days)

Tread Lightly!'s Master Tread Trainer course is a two-day course designed to provide an in-depth look at outdoor ethics focusing on motorized and mechanized recreation on both land and water. Participation in the course qualifies individuals to present the Tread Lightly! message consistently to others in their state or region.

Janine Shepherd will be the Closing Keynote at Symposium
“Rising Like a Phoenix: A Testament to the Power of the Human Spirit”

A champion cross-country skier in training for the Winter Olympics, Janine's life was irrevocably altered when she was hit by a truck on a bike ride. Doctors warned her parents that she was not expected to survive her extensive injuries. Struggling to come to terms with her shattered Olympic dreams, and wondering what life could now offer, Janine's fighting spirit and miraculous recovery and subsequent achievements are a testament to the power of the human spirit. Read more about Janine Shepard...

You can contribute to the Symposium!

There are several ways for you to lend your support to the Symposium. American Trails is looking for youth mentors, volunteers, Creative Crossing photos, anniversary announcements, and auction items for both the Silent and Live Auctions. See below for details.

Mentors
Volunteer mentors are being sought to guide recipients of the Hulet Hornbeck Youth Scholarship during the Symposium. Mentors are needed to help introduce youth participants to professionals and provide information about job and career opportunities in conservation and... resource management. This experience will aid in developing new trail and natural resource stewards and leaders for the future. Download the Mentor Letter and the Mentor Application to learn more. Deadline for Mentor Applications extended to February 11. Learn more about the Hulet Hornbeck Youth Scholarship Fund...

Volunteer

The Symposium has a wide variety of opportunities for volunteers. Just let us know how you are able to help by filling out the online volunteer application form. All volunteers get a "Trail Boss" t-shirt and are invited to attend the Volunteer Party closing night of the Symposium!

Creative Crossings Photo Gallery

During the Symposium, you will have an opportunity to share the beauty of your trail crossings or bridges in the Creative Crossings Photo Gallery. Recent years have seen the construction of some strikingly beautiful and innovative trail bridge designs. American Trails will showcase those bridges and other trail crossings in a photo gallery in the Exhibit Hall and on the American Trails website. Submit your Creative Crossing photos to the American Trails office by February 28. Email them to symposium@americantrails.org along with the name of the bridge, trail name, location, and photo credit.

Anniversaries

American Trails loves to celebrate important milestones for trail organizations and events at the American Trails International Symposiums! Let us know by February 28 and we will recognize your anniversary at the 21st National Trails Awards Celebration Banquet, as well as on the American Trails website. Email anniversary announcements and two high resolution photos to symposium@americantrails.org.

Auction Items

Promote your brand and the great products and services you offer by donating an item to our Silent and Live Auctions. Our attendees are avid outdoors enthusiasts who are always searching for unique products and opportunities. There are also opportunities for being an exhibitor or sponsor for additional exposure for your company. We encourage you to donate items that represent what your organization/company has to offer to the trails world. See a list of examples of auction items and how to donate one...

In-depth Core Tracks added to Symposium schedule

A major innovation for this year's Symposium is a new format option called Core Tracks. Core Tracks are designed to allow presenters to explore subjects in greater depth than is possible in a 75 minute Concurrent Session. This will allow ample time for in-depth presentations, discussion, examples, and practice, and some sessions include field work. Registration is only required for OFFSITE Core Tracks taking place the morning of Tuesday, April 16. (Please note: Some of the Core Tracks have a Part 1 and a Part 2. Some sessions are held in the classroom and some are offsite. It is highly encouraged that you attend both Part 1 and Part 2.) Learn more and view a list of the Core Tracks...

Welcome INTERNATIONAL speakers, keynotes, and attendees

American Trails is thrilled to host its first International Trails Symposium in Arizona -- an international tourist destination! We want to reach across the oceans to harness our combined wisdom to support and encourage the collective dedication to trail initiatives around the world. The program will feature international sessions, which will provide alternative ways of approaching challenges in the trails world and will provide excellent networking opportunities for our attendees. We are stronger and more effective together, and the Symposium is a perfect way for the international trails community to share success stories and lessons learned.

Here is a sampling of confirmed countries to date:

- Australia
- Canada
- China
- France
- Japan
- Puerto Rico
- South Africa
- South Korea
- United Kingdom

Deadline has been extended to February 15. Read more...

A season for thanks to friends of trails

American Trails' website editor, Stuart Macdonald, expresses thanks for the people who are working for trails in every corner of America. They are creating trails that enrich our lives, inspire us to exercise, and lift up our spirits with connections to the natural world. We thank the many friends of trails, volunteers, workers, and elected officials, as well as "the optimists who refuse to give up, who believe that every problem has a solution, and that every community deserves a trail." "Breaking Barriers" aims to engage youth in the outdoors

Young people are spending less time outdoors and more time in front of a screen than ever before. As a result, more and more young people are disconnected from the natural world. This disturbing trend has implications for their health and well-being, academic success, civic engagement, and their future interest in both public lands and the environment. The Breaking Barriers Project undertook a year-long, action-oriented, research project designed to increase understanding of what prevents and what motivates youth to participate in activities outdoors. NEWS

James Swan writes about American Trails for Outdoor Hub

In a recent internet article author James Swan writes about "American Trails: A National Movement Spreading Worldwide." He cites their efforts to "get people outside to do what’s good for them." He quotes Pam Gluck, American Trails Executive Director on the benefits: "Trails also play a key role in increasing environmental awareness, by revitalizing river corridors, as well as providing fun alternatives to driving." Michigan Governor proposes 924-mile trail to show off state

A 924-mile trail stretching from Detroit's Belle Isle to Wisconsin - connecting existing trails and meandering through the middle part of the Michigan mitten and across its Upper Peninsula - would showcase some of the state's most breathtaking vistas to hikers, snowmobilers, and...

600-mile snowmobile trail would link Maine wind farms

Maine snowmobilers love to have destinations for their wintertime rides, and they are working with the wind power industry on a plan to link perhaps 10 of the state's wind farms with trails in a unique addition to Maine's outdoor tourism menu. The wind power companies, for their part, make a practice of reaching out to those who have some connection to the land where their projects are going, through hunting, fishing, or other outdoor recreational activity. Mississippi begins work on 44-mile rail trail

Tanglefoot Trail runs through three North Mississippi counties -- Union, Pontotoc, and Chickasaw. The Trail begins in New Albany and runs 44 miles south to Houston, MS. If all goes according to schedule, the trail should be complete and open for public use by late spring or early summer 2013. The Chickasaw Journal quoted Lee Nabors, a trail advocate from Houston: "There is not a doubt in my mind that once the trail is open the entrepreneurial spirit of people around here will find a way to capitalize on this project." Lake Wobegon Trail used three times higher than thought

The Stearns County Times reports that, "About three times more people used the Lake Wobegon Regional Trail than originally thought, according to a summer count that estimated annual visits at 311,433." Stearns County Parks Director Chuck Wocken said he believed that number was even higher. Because the Greater Minnesota Regional Parks & Trails Coalition pilot project was conducted only during the summer, Wocken said winter uses, such as snowmobiling, likely were under-represented. Trail users put aside differences to clear path

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution writes about an effort by the U.S. Forest Service in north Georgia to bring together bikers, equestrians, and off-roaders with the goal of getting more volunteers together to share expertise and work in concert for the trail systems. "The U.S. Forest Service didn't have a good database of trail conditions, nor did they have the manpower or money to maintain them," said Dave Logan, a member of the Southern Four-Wheel Drive Association. "We wanted to see what we had, what trails needed to be fixed, what needed to be closed or rerouted. Now, we as volunteers have a work plan." Read more...

Featured Trail: New York's High Line soars above the city streets

Photographer Don Andberg provides some views of the former elevated railroad line that is now a linear park soaring above the Manhattan streets. The new High Line has been acclaimed for enhancing the life of the city, while spurring new investment in the West Chelsea neighborhood. Over two million people visited the park during its first year of operation in 2009-10. Read more and see Don's photos of the High Line...

Howard Peak Greenway is a key part of San Antonio's trails vision

The City of San Antonio Howard W. Peak Greenway Trail System currently boasts a total of 41 miles of completed trail and several more miles of trail under construction and in the design phase. These trails were completed through the Linear Park Creekway Development Program for Selado Creek, Leon Creek, Medina River, and the San Antonio River, which is funded through sales tax approved by voters in 2000, 2005, and 2010. Approximately 1,200 acres of property along San Antonio Creekways have been acquired for the program since its inception. Read more and see photos...

America's Great Outdoors Progress Report

The Obama Administration released the 2011 America's Great Outdoors Progress Report on how the President's America's Great Outdoors Initiative is being addressed by 15 federal agencies. "The quality and accessibility of our outdoor spaces have a significant impact on the economic and physical health of American communities," said Nancy Sutley, Chair of the Council on Environmental Quality. "Actions under the America's Great Outdoors initiative are reinvigorating a national discussion about the value of conservation, resulting in smart, innovative strategies and investments that respond to the priorities of American communities." Combating marijuana cartels on America's public lands

Americans may disagree over the legalization of marijuana, but not when it comes to the pot plantations fast turning once-pristine corners of our public lands into environmentally ravaged war zones. These illicit wilderness farms are guarded by armed gangs, who are willing to kill innocent hikers and law enforcement personnel to protect their profits. In "War in the Woods," California Fish and Game Warden Lieutenant John Nores and author James Swan recount in riveting detail the perilous job of eradicating pot plantations. Read more...

Best Practices: Signs crediting grants and programs

The message that "trails don't just happen" is vital in nurturing public support for the funding sources behind trails. The source of funds for land acquisition as well as facilities is also important. Some programs are specific to a locality, such as sales tax support. Other projects are funded by state sources, such as lotteries. And many trails are partly funded by grants from federal funds, such as the Recreational Trails Program and...
